mer Festival is well under way, but still has numerous activities remaining.

A few festival highlights will be the all-day Sport-A-Rama today, a July Fourth parade Thursday and the dedication ceremonies Wednesday of the Boys' Club newly erected Carl Robert Arvin Gymnasium, and a two-day ethnic festival Friday and Saturday.

The Sport-A-Rama schedule is enough to keep someone busy from 4 to 9:30 tonight, and includes athletic clinics with four of Eastern Michigan University's top coaches; an appearance by the Detroit Wheels with their coach, Dan Boisture, former EMU football coach and star quarterback, Bubba Wyche; skydiving; country and western music; a punt, pass and kick clinic, and much more.

Ypsilanti Rocking Chair Marathon.

Armed with food, thermos bottles, books, umbrellas and foot stools the band of rockers has settled in for a long siege.

Everyone rocked for at least seven hours, with Ginny Higgins the first rocking drop-out after 7 hours and 14 minutes of rocking. Press Managing Editor Tim J. McGuire virtually flew out of his chair three minutes after the first dropout. One of the participants followed shortly after that, but then the next dropout did not come until shortly after midnight. The $300 prize money is what's making those chairs rock as several high school and college age youths have promised a "rock to the finish."

Remarks of "I'll do anything for $300" and "if I go 100 hours it will be $3 an hour and that's good pay," were repeated many times.

In the early going Monday there was a festive air, and the rockers enjoyed the curious spectators immensely. But around 6 p.m. the mood settled a bit and people started realizing just how difficult their venture really was going to be.

One youth suddenly screamed "This is insane man, nobody's leaving look they're all relaxing.'

The festive mood returned during the night as one guitar playing contestant serenaded the group and most people sang along. Radios blared and talking was frequent

The rules of the contest are simple. Each contestant gets a sevenminute break from his chair every two hours. He can stretch and even leave the area. After he returns to his chair he can entertain visitors inside the roped off area for 15 more minutes. He can receive a backrub and get food at that time

Break time was the most festive as friends flooded into the area and asked the contestants silly question after silly question.

There are different ways of taking a break. Some high schoolers rode a small boy's bicycle around the parking lot to loosen up. Others did handstands and one of the youngest contestants 11-year-old Susan Ramos ran around the block in the middle of the night.

The youngsters are holding out well, but one, 12-year-old Matt Hale, has captured the crowd's attention. Young Matt with long blonde locks and a blue sun hat is probably the hardest rocker in the marathon. He has an almost vicious but steady rock that's fascinating. As his mother set him up with an ice cooler and blankets Monday afternoon she told a friend, "this isn't going to be any trouble for Matt he's been rocking since he was

There's no doubting the will of at least 10 participants who entertain absolutely no thoughts of losing this marathon. With signs like "$300 or bust," they're committed to going down to the bitter end which judges estimate will be around 100 hours or 4 days.

After 5-hour delay

Summit talks resume

MOSCOW (AP) — President Nixon and Leonid I. Brezhnev resumed their summit talks late today after some five hours' delay and conferences with their top

As Nixon and Brezhnev got together in the Kremlin they still faced as their top problem finding ways to limit offensive nuclear weapons.

No immediate explanation was given by either side for the delay. Soviet sources did not discourage reports that the Politburo had met during the past 24 hours. This may have accounted for the delay in resumption of summit talks, but there was no confirmation. White House press spokesman toward an enlargement of the test ban was made Monday by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko while Nixon was sightseeing in Minsk. But he cautioned that work on the test ban was not complete and said no agreement was likely to be signed before Nixon speaks tonight on Soviet television and radio.

Kissinger and Gromyko also spent much time trying to work out a mutual pledge to try to impose controls by the end of the year on missiles with multiple warheads.

Kissinger, asked about prospects for such an agreement, said: "I don't know; I really don't know."

Ziegler confirmed that Nixon and Brezhnev have virtually wrapped up another agreement limiting U.S. and Soviet missile defense systems beyond the controls imposed in their 1972 treaty.

The two leaders have yet to find a way to unsnarl two East-West negotiations—the Vienna talks on a parallel pullback of American and Soviet troops in Central Europe and the Geneva conference at which Moscow is seeking formal Western recognition of its hegemony in Eastern Europe.

In Minsk, the capital of Byelorussia, the President visited memorials to the dead in World War II and promised to continue to work with Brezhnev to "build a

A lot of the frills will be left on Ypsilanti's proposed new fire station as the result of consideration Monday night of ways of reducing the cost of the project.

Although City Manager Joseph A. Warren presented a list of possible reductions that would have brought the total cost down to $707,113, council members voted to defer or eliminate expenses on only five items, at the suggestion of Mayor Pro-Tem J. Dale Hooker.

Among the cost reductions approved were a change in roof structure from specifications, paving a portion of the adjacent police station drive areas with deep-strength asphalt and using steel instead of cast iron floor gratings for run off troughs inside the building. Items delayed were purchases of downspout splashplate and storm sewers. Council members found that if expenses exceeded the $735,000 originally budgeted for the station, they could draw on money in the revenue-sharing account that is earmarked for the first payment on a fire truck expected to be delivered in three years.

Hooker said he didn't see the need for all the deletions and he said, "I'd hate to see them left out because I'm concerned that in the future they just won't hap-

Among the items that were suggested to have been deleted or postponed were the emergency generator for the station, use of seed instead of sod, landscaping, a lawn sprinkler system, outside lighting and some planting.

Mayor George D. Goodman suggested that council move on some of the items because council next year might change all of its priorities and not wish to purchase some of the postponed items.

Council member Lawrence J. Lobert said he felt that the payment for the planned truck purchase be transferred to the contingency account of the revenue-sharing budget so that any money not taken up by the fire station be used for some "human need" programs.

But council members approved the amended proposal by a vote of 8-3. Council members voting 'no' were Lobert, Harold R. Baize Jr. and Eric Jackson.

For the time being, however, no attempt is expected to unseat the new president and the country is expected to remain calm. Mrs. Peron, in a broadcast announcing her husband's death, appealed to "friends and adversaries" to calm their "personal passions in favor of a free, just and sovereign country." The armed forces, which overthrew Peron in 1955 and ruled the country for 18 years, promised to uphold the constitutional succession, and all political factions have expressed support.

The labor unions declared a general mourning strike until midnight Wednesday but said essential services would be maintained.

Jaworski denial

WASHINGTON (AP) - Special prosecutor Leon Jaworski has denied it was his idea for the Watergate grand jury to name President Nixon as an unindicted coconspirator.

'The grand jury ... and not merely the prosecutor made this important determination in the first instance," Jaworski told the Supreme Court Monday.

Jaworski and White House attorney James D. St. Clair filed final briefs with the court in preparation for arguments next Monday on the President's resistance to a lower court subpoena for potential Watergate cover-up evidence.

Finance reform

WASHINGTON (AP) - Controversy erupted after a House committee reversed itself and approved a broad campaign finance reform bill including public bankrolling of presidential primaries.

Rep. 'John Brademas, D-Ind., sponsor of the primary funding provision, on Monday termed the measure "a good bill, a strong bill, a defensible bill."

But Common Cause, the selfstyled citizens lobby, attacked it as "loophole-ridden legislation which places members of Congress firmly in control of campaign finance law enforcement."

There were no missing-persons reports filed to corroborate the reported abductions, he said.

Butterfield on witness stand today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alexander P. Butterfield, who first told the nation of President Nixon's secret taping system, is the leadoff witness in the final phase of the House impeachment inquiry.

Butterfield, formerly Nixon's appointments secretary, faces a day-long examination behind closed doors today about the White House chain of command at the time covered by the Watergate investigation.

The committee has received a vast amount of information about the activities of various White House aides in connection with Watergate and wants to see if it leads to Nixon's Oval Office.

Butterfield is one of 10 witnesses listed for possible examination by the Judiciary Committee before July 12, when it starts deliberating proposed articles of impeachment. In other Watergate-related developments:

-Former plumbers supervisor David R. Young testified that last year then-White House domestic adviser John D. Ehrlichman relayed word that President Nixon wanted the plumbers to refuse to answer official questions about the Ellsberg break-in.

-Special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski told the Supreme Court that it was not his idea that a grand jury name President Nixon as an unindicted co-conspirator.

—The Justice Department asked an appeals court to overturn a lower court ruling that the firing of the first special Watergate prosecutor, Archibald Cox, had been illegal.

-President Nixon's former personal lawyer, Herbert W. Kalmbach, surrendered to federal marshals to begin serving a six-to 18-month jail term for federal campaign finance violations. Six of the 10 witnesses to come before the Judiciary Committee have been suggested by James D. St. Clair, Nixon's chief impeachment lawyer. Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., reversing a previous decision, said Monday he will recommend that all six be called.

Rodino, who previously said only two of St. Clair's witnesses might be called, offered his concession to the Republicans, hoping for their support on the House floor for a procedural change designed to speed the examination of wit-

Newsmen push for open trial

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) -Lawyers for the news media say they will go to the Texas Supreme Court if a judge refuses to open to the public the trial of Elmer Wayne Henley, accused in the Houston mass murders.

District Court Judge Preston Dial, calling newsmen "a bunch of locusts," ordered closed-door jury selection Monday for the 18-yearold Henley, accused of six of the deaths of 27 teen-aged youths whose bodies were discovered last Attorneys for the San Antonio Express-News and the San Antonio Light, local station KENS-TV and The Associated Press and United Press International sent attorneys to protest the action. They are due back today to file a motion seeking the end of the secret trial.

If Dial refuses, as he did Monday, the attorneys said they will seek a writ of mandamus from the Texas Supreme Court ordering the trial opened. They also will ask Dial to end jury selection pending a high court decision.

During the closed session Monday, five women and three men were cleared as prospective jurors. When 32 are selected, lawyers for the defense and prosecution will strike 10 names each, and the 12 persons left will make up the jury.

LANSING, Mich. (AP) - The legislature has passed a bill to keep state checks from bouncing by authorizing continued spending at current levels.

The new fiscal year began Monday, so until the continuation budget becomes law, state spending is technically illegal. The governor was expected to sign the bill quickly.

City council grants $13,500 to school program

The Ypsilanti City Council Monday night agreed to contribute $13,500 to an areawide community schools program.

But it added an amendment to the community schools resolution stipulating that release of city funds be contingent upon participation by all other units of government designed to be in the

The amendment was added, council members said, in case either Superior Township or Ypsilanti Township failed to contribute to the plan so that the entire budget would have to be reshuffled.

According to the community schools concept, the recreational, educational, social and health resources of the city, the two townships and the public schools will be pooled to provide increased enrichment opportunities for all

Dawn Lennington, a member of the audience, urged council members to pass the resolution without the contingency amendment because she did not think the education program in the city should depend on Ypsilanti Township, Superior Township or anybody else.

But Mayor Pro-Tem J. Dale Hooker disagreed, saying the community schools program was designed to be areawide and the success of it depends upon the total participation of those communities

Mayor George D. Goodman said it seemed the city is always the one that has to take the initiative or come out and make a public statement in support of a program before it gets rolling. And he said he hoped the generation of support for the program would come out of the schools rather than the local units of government because the schools will essentially be controlling the program.

Council member Nathalie Edmunds disagreed with the form of the amendment and said she felt language should be added explaining it in a little more detail. She cast the only "no" vote on the amended resolution

Free World Dept.: Another first for 'Emil' Mazey

WASHINGTON — Since transcripts are in season I offer one from which no expletives are deleted. At one point (tapes available) the speaker says:

"In my mind he is guilty as hell.
Let's go on with the impeachment and get rid of this bastard."

The reference is to Dick Nixon. The speaker is one of the nation's low-profiled, but nonetheless powerful labor chiefs, 60-year-old Emil Mazey, second in command of the giant United Auto Workers (UAW). Scene: the virtually unreported UAW 24th constitutional convention in Los Angeles early this month.

Later Mazey, the 1,750 millionmember union's Secretary Treasurer, was asked to retract. He said he would if he could substitute the letters "s.o.b."

Mazey is tough. His references to President Nixon are mild compared with his torrid bon mots reserved for AFL-CIO President George Meany. But what's fascinating about "Emil" (few call him Mr. Mazey) is his avowed Norman Thomas-type militant socialism which hasn't prevented him from skillfully building the UAW into a union with the nation's, if not the world's, greatest cache of capitalist dollars.

There's intense significance in this on the national and international political and industrial fronts. With no great labor battles facing it, the UAW may well pile up almost half a billion dollars in fixed assets and cash in banks (instant cash — certificates and bonds) by the time it meets in convention again in mid-1977.

Built into it are moneys for political action; for Cesar Chavez's United Farm Workers; for other unions' strikers needing immediate cash. The UAW contributed $100,000 to the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Farah boycott drive. Chavez has been getting $10,000 a week and told the convention delegates that "without that money we'd be dead

And right off, one delegate handed him eight checks for $10,000

Yet the auto union itself was practically bankrupt some three years ago. It had spent $160 million striking General Motors. It was $80 million in debt. But black ink was beautiful for Mazey at the convention.

He reported the UAW now was worth $144.5 million — mostly in liquid assets. Some $12.3 million was in cash. That was as of April 30. So the figure is higher today. Of the total figure, the UAW fund

Of the total figure, the UAW fund now runs higher than $90 million. All of it is invested. It keeps piling up though the union appears to be spending about $12 million a month in benefits for local strikes. The going relief rate for a family is $40 a week.

Even at 60, Emil Mazey is a veteran of the early sitdown wars of the '30s. He was the first to sign a union contract with Ford. Back in 1941. And he was the first, I do believe, to sign the first Cost of Living escalator clause in the industry — with General Motors.

No insinuations meant here that it was a one-man show. But he was there during the sit-ins. He unleashed the earliest flying squads. He was first with a lot of firsts. With him were the three Reuther brothers. But Walter and Roy have passed away. And the surviving Victor is writing a book and trying to build a Socialist bloc inside the Democratic party.

So to "Emil" has gone the flaming torch — and the development of more firsts. There appears to be a new one in the creation of something called the Free World Dept. The convention set it up as a regular section of the huge union's infrastructure. It used to be the Free World Fund — which was financed by the interest on the multi-million-dollar strike fund.

Now the department will move more solidly on the international front. I see this as the beginning of actual and not just rhetorical international solidarity with the militant and Socialist automotive and metal workers' unions abroad.

"Why did we establish the Free World Fund?" Mazey asked and then answered himself. "We are living in a period of history where we have multinational corporations such as General Motors, Ford, Chrysler, General Electric, International Harvester, Caterpillar and numerous other companies, and it is important that we have a relationship with the balance of the labor movement in other countries whose members are working for the same corporations that the membership of our union is working for. It is important that we assist them financially to build strong unions..."

This would help auto unions in their drive for higher wages in other nations. Thus the work becomes a regular function under the new Free World Dept. Times change. Men's psyches and intellectual conditioned reflexes rarely do. So it can be expected that Mazey and the men in the UAW's high command are thinking in terms of global action, worldwide strikes.

It's intriguing to note that among the guests were the leaders of the German, Japanese and Republic of South Africa auto unions.

So I thought I wouldn't let this transcript go by.

Arvin ideals stand strong

The Boys' Club board of directors could not have made a better decision in naming the club's new gymnasium for Carl Robert Arvin.

Arvin is a perfect example of the ideals for youth which both the Boys' Club and the newly organized Girls' Club directors hope to instill in youngsters.

The first donation to the Boys' Club building fund was made in Arvin's name — $10,000 military insurance money Mrs. Arvin received following her husband's death in Vietnam.

However it is the man, and not the money which kicked off the building fund drive, for whom the gymnasium is being named.

Arvin was an honor student and outstanding athlete while at Ypsilanti High School. He played football and was a state champion wrestler in his weight class. He was brigade commander while at West Point. His death in Vietnam hit the entire Ypsilanti community hard.

We can only hope that as today's youngsters utilize the new gymnasium they will remember the man for whom the gym is named and his ideals.

Dull deserve representation

Vice President Gerald Ford is being bum-rapped. People keep pointing out that he is dull, not very bright, that he got where he is simply by being a nice guy.

So what? A nice guy has no trouble standing out from the crowd in Washington these days. And why should being dull and a bit on the dimball side disqualify a bit on the dimball side disqualify a fellow from being president? As Sen. Roman Hruska pointed out during the debate over whether to confirm G. Harold Carswell as a Supreme Court justice, "the mediocre people in this country deserve some representation."

Being dull and not very bright is a positive recommendation for the vice presidency. The job condemns him to endure the kind of frustrations that Lyndon Johnson and Hubert Humphrey chafed under when they held that miserable position.

Mr. Ford could become president, however, either through impeachment and conviction of Mr. Nixon, or through election in 1976. We have to weigh him not as a vice president, where a zest for gin rummy and an ability to speak without actually saying anything are prime job specs, but as a fellow who someday might sit in the Oval office.

The things people say most in Ford's behalf are that Ford is honest and that he knows how to get along with people. Since the incumbent has not been celebrated either for integrity or affability, the contrast puts Ford in a good

Some critics carp at good old Jerry because he tends to reverse his position every day or so as to whether or not he is President Nixon's boy.

Okay, so he is a bit nimble on the subject, saying on March 15 that Mr. Nixon is as pure as the driven snow and then assuring the Hibernians in Charleston, S.C., the next day that "I shall remain my own man" and that he sees his role as mediator between the people and the government.

On Jan. 25, talking to the Columbus (Ohio) Touchdown Club, he delivered himself to this view: "When you're seeking to impeach a president, the criteria is (sic) treason, bribery or other high crimes or misdemeanors. What I'm saying is the definition for impeachment of a president is very limited."

By March 12, he was telling reporters he disagreed with the White House view that impeachable conduct includes only criminal offenses during performance of official duties. "I think it could be broader," he said.

As a congressman, he once described an impeachable offense as whatever the Congress thinks it is at any given moment, but he has become less cynical as his circumstances have grown loftier.

Personally, I think his critics are too hard on Jerry. His boss has made clear from the beginning that he doesn't want any biggety vice presidents. Mr. Nixon likes a vice president who knows his place.

Presumably, he chose Mr. Ford with that in mind, just as he did Spiro Who before him. Ford has made about 200 speeches, considerably more than Mr. Nixon would have booked for him, but he doesn't dare to stray too far off the reservation.

By Sen. Hruska's first law, we dull, not very bright citizens deserve to be represented in the White House. We haven't had a president we could call our own since Calvin Coolidge. Don't forget, all you elite intellectuals, that we dimballs pay taxes, too.

Cartoon comment

'Just a little further—we're almost there.'

Money-in-politics law is tough on a Rockefeller

WASHINGTON — One of the guests at former New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's dinner party for Secretary of State Henry Kissinger last week indulged in a mild sarcasm.

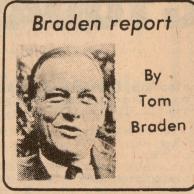

His eyes surveyed the scene. There was the great chateau built in 1908 and looking out upon the Hudson River to the fields and hills beyond; on each side were fountained gardens and statuary; a tent had been erected with tables to serve 350 guests; the waiters were waiting. "Politics," said the guest, comparing the scene before him to his host's career, "is a great leveler."

He spoke better than he knew. If Nelson Rockefeller decides to have another try at the Republican nomination for President, his money will be useless; it will, in fact, be a positive handicap.

The point is important because the more Vice President Gerald Ford talks about not being a candidate for any office in 1976, the more possible another Rockefeller race seems.

Letters welcome

The Press welcomes letters from its readers. They must include name and address, and should not exceed 300 words. All are subject to condensation. Name and address of writer will be withheld if requested, except on letters containing personal attacks on-or charges against individuals.

Ford has not made a Sherman statement, but Mrs. Ford is thought to have extracted a promise that her husband will come home to the family when he finishes his current term, and Mrs. Ford's wishes are not be taken lightly.

If Ford doesn't run, to whom will Republicans turn? To Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois? To Gov. Ronald Reagan of California? To Rockefeller? Four terms as governor of New York give Rockefeller a leg-up, and it is an astonishing fact that the only thing which might give him pause is money. For the first time in his life, Nelson Rockefeller may be asking himself a question deeply familiar to other men: "Where do I get the money?"

The new money-in-politics law is tough on a Rockefeller. Fifty thousand dollars in the aggregate is all that he can raise from himself and his immediate family, and this for primary campaigns in perhaps as many as a dozen states.

The new law doesn't bar contributions of more than the $50,000 limit from nephews or nieces or uncles and aunts, but to a Rockefeller such sidestepping would be unthinkable. Millionaires sat down and wrote 333 checks to Richard Nixon's campaign, each check for $3,000. But Rockefeller's stepmother contributed a million to his campaign and then wrote a check to the United States of America for about a half a million in gift tax. Rockefellers not only obey the law; they do not evade it.

So how will Rockefeller get the money? Can we imagine people saying, "I have to send a dollar to Rockefeller"? Or a thousand dollars?

Can he explain to the American electorate that the new campaign laws give him no more advantage than if his name were Smith, Jones or McGovern? And how much will it cost to do that?

Sen. George McGovern (D-S.D.) raised about $20 million in 1972 in contributions of a thousand dollars or less. It cost him almost half that much to get in touch with the contributors. It's difficult to think of a Rockefeller doing as well.

Moreover, by the time the primaries come around, Congress will almost certainly have passed legislation making it illegal for any person to contribute more than, say, $5,000 to a campaign. So Rockefeller family friends will not be able to carry the burden.

It's hard to imagine one of the country's richest men out begging for dollars from his fellow citizens, but that's what Rockefeller will have to do. I wonder whether it ever occurs to him that it's the only thing he got from the administration of Richard Nixon.

Revenue-sharing: How do things stand?

WASHINGTON — The mayors and governors want more after digesting their first bites into the federal treasury, and no one is coming forward with compelling reasons why they shouldn't get it.

Two years have passed and more than $12 billion has been disbursed in the five-year experiment with revenue-sharing, so Sen. Edmund Muskie (D-Me.) is holding hearings to learn how things stand. All the evidence is not in from the 38,745 government units being enriched by the grants. There have been instances of foolishness, but the complaints on hand do not refute a general impression that the money is being prudently

The key to a responsible performance by most local officials is News Focus

By Charles Bartlett

National columnist

their fiscal squeeze. Few can afford to count federal grants as "mad money" to be blown into whimsical projects because they are forced by the rising tide of inflation to race to stay even. Since their need for the money is often desperate, they are not tempted to spend it lightly.

spend it lightly.

The big grumble, especially in Congress, is that local officials are using federal revenues to lighten their own tax loads or stave off tax increases. The General Accounting Office found this was true in at least 34 states. Critics argue it was a great mistake not to use the leverage of the grants in a more determined effort to force real tax

But the popular mood makes leveraging tax reform easier in theory than in practice. The revulsion against income taxes is so intense that even trade unions find members prefer sales taxes (now at 8 percent in New York City) to deeper bites in their paychecks. The urgent purpose of revenue sharing was to lighten the financial crisis of local governments, and this could have been stymied by a priority focus on tax reform

Mayor Kenneth Gibson of Newark has used most of his federal largesse to "break the cycle" of rising property taxes which tend to drive the more affluent out of the city. Is this a useful social purpose? Gibson argues that it is, chiefly because high property taxes push rents up and lower the value of real estate. With Newark in a fiscal crisis, there really wasn't time to use the leverage of revenue-sharing to force a state income tax.

Those anxious to expand social spending are not happy with the fruits of revenue-sharing. They opposed it initially because they feared local officials would be callous about the needs of the poor. They argue now that it has enabled the Nixon'administration to pare its allocations to the categorical grant programs. But it is the conservative temper of the times, not revenue-sharing, that is making it harder for the social lobbies to prevail in Congress or in city councils.

There is justifiable disappointment at the failure of the federal grants to stimulate lively citizen interest in how the money is spent. The great aim of bringing government back to the people is being frustrated by the mayors' tendency to lump the federal money into the general funds. All money, after all, is green, so few are aroused to debate how one small slice of the city's resources will be spent.

From tape recorded dinner conversations, he found that husbands were four times as likely to offer food to their dieting wives than vice versa, and 12 times more likely to criticize their eating behavior than to McConnell praise relates. influence eating behavior," McConnell continues. "Socalled 'upper class' persons in the United States tend to be thinner, healthier and live longer than those of the 'lower class.' A recent study of 1,660 New York residents showed 32 percent of the men and 30 percent of the women in the lower class were obese. This was true of just 16 percent of the men and 5 percent of the women in the upper class. And the latter group was two or three times more likely as the middle or lower class to go on a diet," McConnell

> This may be a clue to the failure of most medicallyoriented weight loss programs, according to McConnell. "The average family physician treats 120 patients a year for obesity. About five may have glandular disorder or some form of brain damage; the rest simply eat too much.

"Only about 12 of the over eaters actually lose weight under a doctor's guidance, and 10 of these gain their excess pounds back within one or two years."

Psychologists attribute at least part of the success of commercial therapy programs to the involvement of large groups of people who typically reward each other with social approval for each pound of fat they lose, McConnell says.

Ypsilanti is the star in 'July Jubilee' tonight

Press Entertainment Editor

Three little girls dressed in ballerina costumes are sitting in the corner, looking as if they could go to sleep at any moment. A boy bursts through the curtain and runs across the stage. Crouching beside the orchestra pit, Elsie Sly, musical director, tries to get the drummer to hit the beat just the way she wants it.

It is dress rehearsal night for "July Jubilee," the musical revue celebrating Ypsilanti's Summer Festival, at Ypsilanti High School's auditorium. (The show will open tonight at 8 and run through Saturday.)

A tall man in casual clothes strides down front and on

"Back stage, everybody," cries Jack Reed, director and co-writer of the revue. It's time, at 9:45 p.m., for the troupe's second run-through of the show. The opening number is "On a Wonderful Day Like Today," with the whole company taking part.

'Cut, cut, cut," Reed shouts. He doesn't like the way things were arranged. The music starts up again.

In addition to opening the show generally, the number gives an opportunity for Raggedy Ann (Debra Garner) and Raggedy Andy (David Halliwill) — strike that, Ypsi Ann and Ypsi Andy — to be wound up so that they can provide a link of sorts between the various goings-on, a gimmick not entirely successful.

The company then moves into "New York, New York, A Wonderful Town," with the word "Ypsilanti," naturally, substituted for "New York." "The Battery's up" becomes "The Economy's great," etc.

The company does a spirited, enthusiastic job with both numbers, in fact with all numbers in the show.

Trying to keep some semblance of continuity with Ypsilanti history, the revue then moves into a sequence "Ypsi Copasetic" — which contrasts the various types of square dancing down through the years with rock 'n' roll. In the latter part of the sequence, the emphasis is on Elvis Presley and the 1950s, with the girls in dresses below their knees dancing to "Blue Suede Shoes" and "Let's Go to the Hop."

Then it is on to Ypsilanti's role in the underground slave movement before the Civil War. A group of six women sit crocheting or sewing and sing "I Remember It Well," a song whose significance escaped me, a problem that was to crop up more than once during the production. Vigilantes looking for an escaped slave appear on the scene and are foiled by the wily ladies, particularly the rather unusual rendition of "Beautiful Dreamer" by Marina Wiedman.

It seems a Zigfield show appeared in Ypsilanti's old opera house, which gives Reed an excuse to have Carolyn Leyh and Ruth Lorenz sing a medley of show tunes, most of them post-Zigfeld ("Impossible Dream," "What Do You Get When You Fall In Love?") Both have fine singing voices.

Jack Frost, the 73-year-old ex-vaudevillian from Belleville, appears on the scene as B. M. Damon, stationmaster at the old depot, then breaks into a tap-

NEW YORK (AP) -Booth Newspapers Inc., the Michigan newspaper chain, expects a rise of 29 to 34 cents per share this year, the company has told institutional investors.

Earnings should be $2.55 to $2.60 a share this year, compared to $2.26 last year, the company said.

The company earned $11 million on $136.7 million revenues last year

The chain attributed the rise to production efficiencies gained from conversion to computerized photocomposition, and strong advertising volume in its recently acquired Parade Magazine operation.

Trying to keep on the track of Ypsilanti history, Reed and co-writer George S. Elias use the fact that an Ypsilantian, Ruth Boughner, was a rival for Annie Oakley, to work into a major production sequence based on Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show, closing with a rousing if unrelated to Ypsilanti - "Big D" by the whole company to close the first act. The second act run-through was somewhat attentuated, due to the disappearance of some cast members. It opens with young Randy Sly playing a rag, followed by a big production number - "Varsity Drag" based on the city's relation - I assumed - with Ted Hefley then delivers an amusing verse, "Albert and the Lion," whose relation to the rest of the show and Ypsilanti I am still trying to figure out.

Every so often during all these proceedings, Reed would wander on stage to arrange things to his liking, or call out instructions from a seat in the auditorium: "Get in the light, kids," to Ypsi Ann and Andy when they failed to make use of the spotlight; or "Good, good," when a small spot tracks across the curtain and focuses on the face of Wanda Rutherford, who plays Mother Goose.

Here was another occasion where I was at a loss. Why a Jewish Mother Goose? The attempt at wringing humor out of this seemed a bit strained, though the slightly risque version of "Golda Lox and the Three Bears," with a very sexy Golda Lox, had its moments.

The show rushes to a conclusion, partly because Faith Berg was not on hand to present her version of her own song, "I Love the Land Called Michigan.

The lack of offset by a throat-choking sequence highlighted by a marvelously sung "America the Beautiful" by the July Jubilee singers. Reed copped some of this routine from the musical "1776," opening it with the signing of the Declaration of Independence, gong and all, behind a scrim. In fact, he uses scrim after scrim. The singers are hidden behind one as they sing "America the Beautiful," and as they sing, a huge

After calling the cast together and congratulating them for the progress they had made, Reed singled out one or two persons and those in "Ypsilanti Bound," for a little more work on their routines.

It was now 11:40. I could go home and go to bed. Reed and many members of the "July Jubilee" could not. There's more work than play to staging a musical revue. All those involved deserve credit for contributing so much time and effort for Ypsilanti.

GEMINI (May 21-June Emotions dominate. Know it and do something about it. Means give logic equal time. Otherwise, you could give up something of value for nothing. Member of opposite may play significant role.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Conservative approach now serves your best interests. Do more listening than talking - observe and learn. Older individual wants to aid but also wants to be asked.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Go back to past; review lessons and resolutions. Applies something new.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Lunar aspect points to romance, emotional explosions, problems concerning young persons. You may not find a bed of roses, but you are making progress. Know it and stick to principles.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Home, security, building these areas are spotlighted. Aquarius, Leo individuals Gemini and Sagittarius.

figure prominently. Property values are discussed. Don't sell short. What seems an upset boomerangs and you could upset agreements. Legal arrange financial coup of SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You get where you're going, but what you find is of surprising nature. Means be flexible, versatile, able to utilize material at hand.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Money, love, emotional responses comingle. Conditions are anything but settled. There is apt to be a tearing-down process. Your task is to remodel, rebuild.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Lunar cycle is such that your judgment comes in on target. You make advances. It is important also to make personal contacts. Wear bright colors. Be conspicuous. Refuse to be backed into corner by one who has little talent but plenty of bluff.

AQUARIUS (Feb. 19-March 20): Family communications improve. What was suppressed comes out in open. You are able to deal with situation that you previously skipped, ignored or pretended did not exist.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March specifically to work and 20): Accent is on friends, health areas. Aries, Libra hopes, wishes and your persons could figure in ability to do something important ways. Best now to about it. Techniques are finish rather than to start refined. You have opportunity to choose quality. Pisces and Virgo persons are likely to be in picture.

> IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are sensitive, artistic, fond of travel, overweight and have ability to laugh, especially where your own foibles are concerned. April was important — August finds you on a journey. You draw to you persons born under

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Northrup blast gives Tigers 4-3 win

DOUBLED UP - New York Yankee runner Graig Nettles (9) was out at second base as Detroit Tiger second baseman Gary Sutherland threw to first catching Rick Dempsey in the fourth inning of Monday night's game which the Tigers won, 4-3.

Fans react to NFLPA strike

By the Associated Press The striking National Football League Players Association, which plans to put up the first picket lines in the history of sports on Wednesday, got the first faint flicker of fan reaction Monday night-and it was not favorable.

Two teen-aged football fans picketed a Cincinnati motel Monday night as the NFLPA leaders met with Cincinnati Bengal players. "I think they (the NFLPA) should reconsider some of their demands and start thinking of the fans," said one of the protesters, Jim Murphy.

The strike began at 12:01 a.m. Monday with the 1,200-player union saying "No Freedom, No Football" and hoping the walkout will force the 26 NFL club owners to grant the NFLPA its so-called freedom demands.

Starting Wednesday in San scheduled to open the first NFL camp, the union hopes to keep rookies and free agents, as well as its own membership, from

If successful, the NFLPA action could eliminate the exhibition season and seriously affect the revenue of many teams.

reporting for training

After both sides fired salvos Monday, the NFLPA leadership, headed by Executive Director Ed Garvey and President Bill Curry, left Washington for San Diego, but stopped off in Cincinnati.

'We received expressions of concern on many of the issues," Curry said after a 90-minute meeting with 15 Bengal players.

Pat Matson, the Bengals' player representative, said the vote to support the NFLPA was unanimous. Earlier, Garvey and Curry conducted a news conference at which many questions were asked by Mike Brown, assistant general manager of the Cincinnati team and son of Paul Brown, Bengal head coach and general manager. 'What you are telling these people is not consistent with the information I am receiving, Brown told Garvey.

Garvey countered: "The owners are telling the public they'll play anyone who can walk on a field in order to go ahead with exhibition

This is the second strike action by the pro football union— and the fourth in major league sportssince 1970, but the walkout four years ago ended before preseason play started.

Negotiations between the owners and players union broke off last Wednesday after 10 sessions.

close to being resolved, according to Boisture.

'Fireman' Hiller gets 10th victory

DETROIT (AP) - Fireworks, a fire and a fireman all had their hour Monday night at Tiger

The fireworks are over, the fire is out, but the fireman just keeps rolling along.

Ron Blomberg, Ben Oglivie, Gates Brown and Jim Northrup provided the fireworks with home

But it was Northrup's blast in the eighth inning that snapped a 3-3 deadlock and gave fireman John Hiller his 10th victory of the season as the Detroit Tigers edged the New York Yankees 4-3.

No relief pitcher in baseball has ever won 20 games, but with the season half over, Hiller is half way there. The National League mark for victories by a reliever is 18 by Elroy Face. Hiller is within seven of passing Dick Radatz for the American League record.

"Sure, anything is possible," the soft-spoken southpaw said of a 20triumph season. "But you've got to get in the right situations and sometimes they just don't hap-

Hiller, taking over for luckless Joe Coleman in the eighth, slammed the door on the Yankees the last two innings to up his record to 10-5. It was his 31st appearance this year.

Doc Medich, meanwhile, couldn't seem to close the door at all and his record fell to 8-7. The New York starter gave up three homers to run his season gopher ball total to 17 as he doomed the Yankees to their fifth consecutive

The teams meet again tonight, with southpaw Luke Walker, 3-0, scheduled to pitch for Detroit against righthander Pat Dobson, 6-

The Tigers are fourth in the AL East, 31/2 games behind leader Boston, while New York is last, 71/2 games off the pace.

During batting practice Monday, a fire flared in the stadium's press box elevator, engulfing a long hallway and nearly reaching the press box. It was put out by Detroit

Cecil Upshaw relieved Medich in the eighth but not in time to put out the fire for the Yankees.

The Tigers trailed 3-1 due to a run-scoring single by Ron Blom-berg in the first inning and his tworun homer in the sixth.

Detroit, which got a run in the fifth on an RBI single by Al Kaline, narrowed the gap on a towering homer by Oglivie in the sixth which just missed going over the third deck roof in rightfield.

Gates Brown tied the score 3-3 with a pinch hit homer the next inning. It was his 91st career pinch hit and 13th pinch homer.

In the eighth, after Oglivie lined deep to Lou Piniella in left, Northrup got back the fans' attention by cracking his fifth homer just out of Piniella's reach.

Larry Powell almost ready to come home

Larry Powell may be coming home in the next week or 10 days. The former Ypsilanti High football star has been in the intensive care unit of University Hospitals in Minneapolis, Minn. for 79 days battling a crippling, rare disease, Guillain-Barre syndrome. Powell almost lost his life when the rare, polio-like disease struck him in April but he has battled back in the last two months and the outlook is bright. "He's super good right now," University of Minnesota football coach Cal Stoll said of Powell, who started for the Gophers as a freshman in the offensive backfield last season. "Neurologically, his system is healing quite well and we expect him to be able to get transferred to the University of Michigan hospital in the next week

'Most of his complications have been with his respiratory system

Battle on in soccer

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) Television tape and the trainer's table took over today as key elements in soccer's 1974 World Cup.

The videotape will help Holland's manager, Rinus Michels, plot his strategy for Wednesday's decisive match against Brazil.

The trainer will be in action in the Polish camp at Murrhardt, working on two top players in the hope they will be physically fit for the equally decisive match against West Germany.

Brazil and Poland must win to get to the World Cup final at Munich Sunday. Ties would be enough to put Holland and West Germany through.

but he has been breathing on his own since last Wednesday and has shown marked improvement," Stoll added. "If he continues to improve and shows he doesn't need the artificial breathing devices, then he should be able to get back

Powell was breathing through a tracheal tube in his throat and was on a respirator at night but has shown that he can do without those

His stay in the intensive care unit is costing $300 a day which was paid by a policy he had with the University of Minnesota.

That particular policy was good for 70 days and ended June 22. Since that time a portion of the bill is being paid by a Minnesota state agency as well as a Michigan

"It will be good for Larry to get back to Ann Arbor because he has been here in Minneapolis a long time and a change in scenery will do him a lot of good," Stoll added.

Powell can squeeze a rubber ball and has been doing pull-ups with the aid of a bar hanging above his bed. He cannot use his legs yet but is slowly regaining the feeling in them, according to Stoll.

"Larry seems to be getting more active each day," Stoll explained. "He has been doing chin-ups and has improved enough to go outside a few times in a wheel chair." Powell's weight had dropped from his regular 178 pounds to approximately 130 but he has regained about 15 pounds and was able to eat solid foods for the first time last week. Once Powell is taken to the U-M

Hospital, Stoll said that he would be hospitalized for approximately another month and if he continued to show improvement would be able to go home. He will work with a physical therapist at the U-M hospital when he returns.

Preparing for Memphis is toughest

Boisture faces two problems

By JIM STREETER Of The Press Staff

With only eight days remaining until the World Football League seasonopener at Memphis, Detroit Wheels coach Dan Boisture has a pair of problems to solve.

The first problem for Boisture and his coaching staff will be the trimming of their 57-man roster to 50 players, a move prescribed by the WFL league office by the first game.

However, that decision may take a back seat to the main one facing Boisture: how to prepare for the Memphis Southmen.

Usually the decision to cut players is a difficult one for the coaching staff because it has a relatively short time to evaluate talent in training camp. The Wheels began theirs June 10 at Eastern Michigan's Rynearson Stadium facilities.

That decision won't be too hard for Boisture, however. "We'll have to make all seven cuts at once," Boisture said from his office in Hill Hall Dormitory on the Eastern Michigan campus Monday. 'Actually our cuts will involve only two players at the most," Boisture added. "There are two players that are already on the injured reserve list so they are protected. Halfback Gary Scallen has cleared waivers so we don't have to worry about protecting him."

This will allow Boisture actually to trim just four players.

Islanders get Crashley

FARMINGDALE, N.Y. (AP) - A defenseman with the engaging hockey name of Bart Crashley has signed a National Hockey League contract with the New York Islanders — two years after the club drafted

Crashley was the Islanders' first selection in the 1972 expansion draft. That draft turned into a nightmare for New York when seven of the 21 players selected by General Manager Bill Torrey turned their backs on the NHL and signed contracts with the World Hockey Association. Crashley's choice was the Los Angeles Sharks and he spent two years with that club, setting the WHA record for goals by a defenseman with 18 in his first season. The Sharks have transferred to Detroit and been renamed the Michigan Stags for the 1974-75 season. Crashley decided to go even farther east. "Bart has been moving in this direction for some time," said Torrey, introducing his new defenseman with a small joke Monday. "It just took him awhile to get here. Crashley said the frequent instability of the Sharks' franchise had played a major part in his decision to rejoin the NHL.

linemen, one offensive lineman, one defensive lineman and one offensive back will be included in the seven-man cut. The trims weren't the only thing on Boisture's mind Monday.

Boisture is uncertain of what the Southmen will throw at the Wheels in terms of offensive strengths. "It's going to be difficult to work up a game plan when you really don't know what they're going to run or what kind of defense they will use,' "From all of the information we've received, they haven't scrimmaged anyone so far, so we can't use any scrimmage score to judge their talent. They have a good football team — we know that."

The Wheels attempt to keep three Canadian Football League players is

The three players, Rocky Long, Mike Walker and Ted Wheeler, were signed by the Wheels this season from the British Columbia Lions of the

All three players had option years left in their respective contracts with B.C. but were working out with the Wheels at the start of Midway through training camp the WFL office ordered all WFL teams to release CFL players with valid CFL contracts. The Wheels and the B. C. Lions reportedly are close to making a package deal for all three players, allowing them to play in the WFL.

The CFL players will be practicing today (Monday) and we're expecting the whole problem to be resolved real soon," Boisture said.

Memphis is taking a long look at Oklahoma All-American Lucious Selmon at linebacker. "If it doesn't work out, we'll put him back on the defensive line, because we know he can play there," Memphis head coach John McVay said.

The WFL signed 125 of the 434 players selected in its first collegiate

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)-Basketball superstar Moses Malone's mother has told a seconds and the team's time Richmond newspaper that two colleges offered money and an automobile to her son third, fifth-and sixth-place in apparent violation of NCAA recruiting rules.

Mrs. Mary Malone said Clemson offered her son in the 70-yard hurdles. He $1,000 through an intermediary to buy a car and a New Mexico recruiter loaned him a rental car, the Times-Dispatch reported in today's editions.

Malone, the most heavily recruited high school player in years while at Petersburg High School, signed recently with the University of Maryland. He's now working at a summer job in Washington, Mrs. Malone

"Clemson offered Mo money," she said. "They gave my brother a grand to buy a car for Mo."

The car deal apparently fell through when Mrs. Malone's brother, Charley Hudgins, was unable to secure financing for the Ypsilanti auto, the newspapear reported.

Fans like the Reds in voting

NEW YORK (AP) -Cincinnati seems to be the people's choice as the voting for the National League All-Star baseball team enters its final week.

With voting scheduled to end Sunday, four Red players are leading vote-getters at their respective positions and catcher Johnny Bench is threatening Hank Aaron as top vote-getter of all.

Aaron, the all-time home run slugger from Atlanta, still leads all players with 1,198,471, but Bench is threatening with his 1,153,312 total.

With 2,719,915 votes counted, the Reds' Tony Perez leads at first base with 490,791, teammate Joe Morgan is ahead at second base with 758,823 and Pete Rose appears to have an outfield spot clinched with 832,124 votes.

Ron Cey of Los Angeles is the leading candidate to start at third base in the July 23 All-Star Game in Pitts burgh with 654,480 votes, while Jimmy Wynn of Los Angeles has 713,745 and is a favorite to win the other outfield spot.

In the closest contest, shortstop Bill Russell of Los Angeles holds a slim lead against Larry Bowa of Philadelphia and Dave Concepcion, of-you guessed it-Cincinnati.

Russell has received 494,185 votes against Bowa's 435,240 and Concepcion's 430,712. Pitchers and reserves will be chosen by the opposing managers.

awmakers sweeten their retirement pot

Michigan lawmakers have voted to sweeten their retirement pot, while cutting their own contributions to the pension system.

The House voted 61-38 Monday and the Senate quickly agreed 20-11 to a bill which reduces lawmaker contributions, raises lowers the age at which a legislator can retire without losing money. The bill is William Gov. Milliken for his signature.

The measure is one of three retirement bills approved by the House Monday. The other two, covering state employes and State Police, are also expected to see quck Senate approval. A fourth bill, covering public school employes, is also before the Senate.

The legislative retirement bill passed with little debate and no spoken opposition in following: either house, although the Senate adopted it with just one vote to spare. However, tell their constituents that without a reduction in otherwise anticipated.

The bill passed The House successfully fought off attempts to attach amendments to raise spending, holding firm to agreements made earlier in subcommittee conferences with the Senate.

The welfare budget at one time ballooned to $862 million in state funding and still exceeds Gov. William Milliken's recommendation by almost $10 million. However, the bill meets the executive target agreed upon when it became clear some trimming was needed.

The bill is also a $100 million jump, or 14 per cent, over last year's state When other spending. funding, including $767 million in federal monies is added, the budget becomes a whopping $1.6 billion.

The bill includes a 7.5 per cent increase in payments to those receiving aid to families with dependent children at a cost of $282 million. The total "direct relief" budget is $416 million.
